THE CHINA MAIL.

HONGKONG, WEDNESDAY, FEB. 21, 1877.

CIRCUMSTANCES, it is admitted, materially alter cases, and no circumstance has so powerful an influence as those of time and progress. Opinions which a hundred years ago were sound theology, good law, and pure philosophy have become by the changed nature of the subjects with which they presumed to grapple, comparatively obsolete, and in a measure superseded. Even some of the principles of commercial law, which have remained intact since the days of Rhodes, and which in themselves are unalterable, have become in the new order of things susceptible of different construction and enlarged comprehension. Among these that of General Average may be more particularly specified. The foundation of this contribution on the part of those interested is based, as every school-boy knows, on the fact of a sacrifice on the part of one for the benefit of all. Whether the cargo owner, the ship owner, or the charterer consign to the waves any portion of the peculiar matter in which he has an interest, the others benefitting by his action, must contribute their quota of the loss in proportion to the risk they had at stake. This principle is immutable, but the question of what constitutes a sacrifice for the general good, as distinguished from inevitable accident, or rather the act of God, as expressed by the old writers, has been the subject of much controversy and not infrequently resort to the courts. Cutting away spars and rigging when fixed in their proper places, the jettison of cargo, the cutting of cables, stranding a ship deliberately, together with all charges and expenses of every nature incurred after an act of sacrifice has been committed until matters are restored to the status quo ante are admittedly subjects of general average. But the loss of spars and rigging by squalls or other accident has been usually held to be a matter of particular average.

The use of iron not only in ship-building, but also in the spar-yard and rigging-loft, has introduced new elements into considerations of maritime losses which have not failed to affect materially the old method of estimating contributions. A wooden spar when broken is comparatively worthless, an iron one with a few rivets is as sound as ever. Effects are sometimes produced by the action of a metal mast from which a wooden one is exempt, which require measures to be taken from which a master would shrink, if the loss fell entirely upon himself and those he represents. A late issue of Mitchell's Maritime Register refers to a case of this nature. The Master of the ship Star of Erin, while in moderate weather found that his main-mast, which was of iron, had worked itself loose, and that there was danger of its finding its way through the bottom of the vessel. Believing in the existence of a peril, which might involve the loss of vessel and cargo, he cut away this mast and let it go to the bottom. His proposition to treat this as general average was scouted as absurd. There was no danger requiring the "lightening of the vessel," believed by tyrons to be an essential element to constitute general average, no lee shore to avoid, no high seas threatening foundering—in fine weather and a smooth sea, he cut away his mast, let him pay for it himself. But the Court, to which he took his case, and the Jury to whom he told his tale, were of a different opinion, and declared it to be a case of sacrifice for the general good. Not satisfied with this decision, his opponents appealed to a higher Court, on the grounds of a verdict against evidence and misdirection of the Judge. But, strange to say, the higher Court took the same view of it, approved the direction of the Bench and sustained the verdict of the Jury. Until reversed by some contrary decision from some higher tribunal this may be reasonably considered as good British law.

But in a case occurring in our own waters, bearing many traits of similarity, the local average staters, adhering to the old usages as applied to ships before iron was dreamed of in their construction beyond the fastenings and ring bolts, have rejected, we assume, this decision and given judgment against the claim. The ship Sarah Nicholson, while on a voyage from London to Hongkong, was struck by a sudden squall in Gilolo Passage, which carried away the main and mizzen top-gallant masts and part of the fore-topmast with the upper fore-top-sail-yard. These spars were of steel, and remained fast to the ship held by the rigging which was of steel wire. Nothing would have been easier than to have got these on board again, had the ship been in an open sea way. A few sheets of steel and a handful of rivets would have repaired all damages and a thousand pounds have been saved. But the dangerous navigation of the straits, the proximity of the reefs which abound there, as well as an island immediately under his lee, deterred the master from making any efforts for salvage, which must have jeopardized the ship, freight and cargo, and he very properly, as we think, cut his rigging with cold chisels and let the wreckage go to the bottom. But in doing this he sacrificed the property of his owners for the general good of all interested, and it would certainly seem as if a portion of the loss should be made up to him by those whose property was saved by his forbearance. The two cases quoted have many points of resemblance. In both the Star of Erin and the Sarah Nicholson, the perils of the seas had forced the spars out of their places, in both they still remained attached to the ship and in the possession of the master, in both were they cut away deliberately for the believed safety of all interested, in both was the property intrinsically valuable and in both was the safety of the ship jeopardized by allowing them to remain. We fall to see, in the face of this decision, the grounds on which the average staters took it upon themselves to reject this claim and throw the entire loss upon the ship. It certainly will have the effect of causing masters to take more risks in trying to save owners' property under similar circumstances, letting charterers and freighters take their chances.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.
We hear telegrams are in town, to the effect that the Russians have crowned the frontier into Bulgaria, and that British troops have been landed at Constantinople.

To-morrow being the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, and a public holiday by law in the United States, a national salute will be fired from the U. S. S. Ashuelot at noon.

The Superintendent of the Eastern Extension, Australasia and China Telegraph Company informs us that he has received news of the departure from Singapore for this port of the Company's steam ship Edinburgh to repair the broken cable.

His Excellency the Governor has finally decided upon taking passage to Queensland in the Mail Steamer Brisbane, which is expected to leave Hongkong not later than the 1st of March. His Excellency is and Miss Kennedy will be glad to receive any friends, who may desire to take leave of them, between the hours of two and five o'clock on Tuesday, the 27th inst.

We note the arrival of the revenue cruiser Feihoo, now under command of Captain Cooker, vice Captain Clayton, promoted to a deputy-inspectorate of Customs at Canton. The command of the Ling Fong has, we hear, been given to Captain Farrow, lately in the employ of the Fokhien officials.

We have just heard of a sad accident which occurred on board the Meane on Sunday night. A young man named Kemp, a private in the Royal Engineers, was under treatment for the small pox, and during the night, although closely watched, he managed to escape from his bed, and has not since been seen. It is believed he became delirious and leaped overboard.

We have to acknowledge receipt of two recent publications—the "Japan Gazette Hong List and Directory," and the "Alta California Almanac" for 1877. The first is an excellent publication of its kind, and will be invaluable to the business man resident in or having dealings with Japan. It is not only a directory and long list for Yokohama but also for the whole of the open ports in Japan, and contains in addition a large amount of useful information respecting the vessels of war on the Asiatic Station. The "Alta California Almanac" must also be a very useful work to persons carrying on business on or with the Pacific slope.

The community will observe with pleasure from an advertisement in another column that it is intended to give His Excellency Sir Arthur Kennedy, a farewell dinner on Tuesday next, the 27th inst., at the City Hall. We learn that every effort is being made to render the affair a complete success. A Committee, consisting of twenty members, has been formed, with Mr H. B. Gibb as Chairman, and the entire foreign community is represented in it. The members are: Messrs Gibb (Chairman), Ryrie, Kewrick, Lowcock, Kerr, Nelson, Pomerooy, Tobin, Hopplius, Crawford, Coxon, Sassoon, Lammert, Rutinjee, Tonnochy, Bellios, McIver, Inglis, Jackson (Hon. Treasurer), and Russell (Hon. Secretary). Residents wishing to join in the dinner are invited to affix their names to one of the lists, which are placed in the Hongkong and German Clubs, and at Messrs Lane, Crawford & Co.'s, and which will remain open until Saturday next.

Mrs. Justice Snowden sat for a short time in the Summary Court to-day to finish a suit that was pending between a Chinaman named Chun Sing Fuk and Captain Matzen of the barque Cap Horn. The plaintiff sued for $28.60 for work and labour done in caulking the lower hold of the ship. It appeared that the defendant had entered into a contract with the plaintiff to caulk the lower hold for $20, and according to the plaintiff's story, he was required to do some extra work, the caulking of the upper seams, which did not form part of the contract. While the work was going on, his men were turned away and had to come ashore without completing the work, but after the extra work had been done, the defendant denied that there was any extra work, and urged that the plaintiff did not complete his contract. After evidence was taken, his Lordship gave a decree for $10 with costs.

The Criminal Sessions of the Supreme Court were to have been resumed to-day according to the order of adjournment announced at the close of the sitting yesterday. Although the Jury made their appearance, the Judge was non est, and after a little loss of time, the Acting Registrar told them that their services were not required, it having been arranged to adjourn the Sessions till Monday next. The Hon. the Chief Justice did not make his appearance till nearly 11 o'clock, when he said he had forgotten all about it and had come into Court by mere accident. Why the change in the day of adjournment was not made known to the Jury and the public generally seems somewhat strange. The police, the witnesses, the Jury and the Court officers had all assembled, and were in waiting to see the Court formally opened, and the prisoners who had been unnecessarily brought down, had to be marched up again. His Lordship in a measure weakens his authority against careless Jurors in this manner, as he can hardly "lecture" or fine a defaulting Juror in the face of similar lapses on his own part. It was very considerable, however, on the part of the Chief Justice to adjourn until Monday.

A PARAGRAPH published in a Java paper, and reproduced in our Straits news on the 19th inst., contains the unpleasant information that the Swedish vessel Kronprins Adolf, from Hongkong to London, had become fixed on the Karang Hadjie, in Banks Straits. It was also stated that "on the same reef the remains of an unknown steamboat from Amoy or Hongkong, which had apparently been lately wrecked there," were to be seen. We note in regard to the first accident mentioned that the Kronprins Gustaf left this port for London on January 10th; but we can find no record at the moment of the vessel spoken of by the Java papers. Of the second disaster we can say but little, though it would be satisfactory to learn further concerning this "unknown steamboat from Amoy or Hongkong." At first it was thought it might have been the missing Paradise, but it would be almost impossible for her to have drifted so far to the southward, there being a large number of intervening rocks and shoals upon which she might have struck previous to disappearing for ever. Any information bearing upon these mysterious bits of news will be gladly made public.

In accordance with a custom of great antiquity, the Man in the Ditch has forwarded us his usual "tip" concerning the events of To-morrow's Races. Whether or not his prophecies are as accurate and unerring as they ought to be in those "hard times," when every one should win and no one deserves or can afford to lose—the proceedings at the Race-course must decide. His version of the lucky list is as follows:—

WONG NEE CHONG STAKES.
Ventre de Biche, or Pontiff.
COLONIAL STAKES.
Newstead, Claymore, Besperus.
ASHLEY CUP.
Sylark.
THE HONGKONG DERBY.
Twinkle, The Raven, The Doctor.
GARRECK CUP.

Numbers 1 and 2 of a new Sunday paper recently started at San Francisco, bearing the title of The Mail, has been forwarded to us for notice. It is got up in exact imitation of the London Mail, but it has nothing but a typographical semblance to our metropolitan contemporary. A weaker and more blackguard publication in tone than this journal we have seldom seen make pretensions to virtue and respectability. Its contents are liberally interspersed with puffs of itself and scurrilous attacks on its contemporaries. Here is one specimen of these brilliant articles, which will speak for itself:—"It is the inevitable instinct of the hungry, mangy, mongrel little cur to snap at the well-fed Newfoundland that goes placidly by. The editor of a penny-dip sort of a paper called the Pacific Life, and which he edits with his hat in one hand and his pen in the other, is a virtuously indignant because we choose to speak the truth for nothing. When the unpaid bills of his concern have accumulated sufficiently to point his whole edition upon, and the journal is relegated to the Potter's Field of journalistic wackings, we shall attend the funeral 'with pleasure,' as the countryman said. Until then there are too many live lions to fight without wasting time kicking a half-dead donkey." We fancy this is not quite the style of the London Times, and San Francisco can scarcely be congratulated on this addition to its Sunday literature.

Punch expired from want of material, but there seems to be extra in Egypt yet. The following circular was recently sent round to a select few, and we have been favoured with the annexed account of a subsequent meeting, which such an important question could not, of course, fail to bring together:—

"PETROLEUM! PETROLEUM! PETROLEUM! —Notos.—A Meeting of Bald-Headed Men will take place at the City Hall this afternoon at five o'clock for the purpose of taking into consideration the advisability of combining to purchase the entire Cargo of Petroleum arrived per German schooner 'Notos.'—F. ANDERSONMAN, Chairman."

"The above Circular brought together, at the appointed time and place, a goodly number of human Cots. The meeting presented a field for phenological study that would have rejoiced the heart of Dr. Gall. Some little difficulty occurred in the appointment of a Chairman, it having been determined that the baldest person present should occupy that exalted position—there was a considerable display of that extreme modesty for which bald men are remarkable, and several well-known residents advanced substantial reasons for declining the honour. The difficulty was ultimately solved by the election of a gentleman referred to in Punch as having been born bald. The speeches were numerous and eloquent. One and all disclaimed any personal interest in the question as to whether petroleum is, or is not, a specific, but for the sake of suffering humanity they were quite willing to give it a trial, and it was resolved, unanimously, that the cargo mentioned in the Circular should at once be secured, the purchase being entrusted to a Sub-Committee, whose task was to procure and proclaim their fitness for the office. The bulk of the speakers in relating their personal experience disclosed a peculiar feature in Natural History, that in no single instance could their baldness be accounted for by what might be termed Natural Causes. Climate, Losses in Tea, Exposure during Typhoon. Persistent running of the head against such subjects as "Hongkong Water Supply," "Establishment of a Mint in China," and "The Blue-water Question"; excessive use of Soda Water without the corrective Brandy, Years spent under Punks, and Short Beds, were a few of the many reasons assigned, while one gentleman from Bangalore attributed the loss of hair to a prevalent custom among the maidens of that country of kissing the heads of their fathers' guests,—it being a well-established fact that repeated osculation is destructive of capillary attraction. Another had had occasion to hurry through Hades with his hat off, and suffered as sheep's heads do in Scotland preparatory to cooking.

The proceedings were marked with great unanimity, and the only dissenting voice was raised by a gentleman who remarked using the words of a favorite English author—"tho' it was 'ard to lay the 'and on 'ead' were the 'air would never 'old'—still he had no belief in the efficacy of petroleum, either crude or refined, and he considered that they had been vulgar victims of a cruel, meaningless vulgar practical joke—the perpetrator of which he should like to hold up to public execration. This view not being generally adopted the meeting broke up—the majority of those present having previously intimated their determination to have a re-union at an early date, at which to report progress, and compare heads."

[We may perhaps render some assistance in the discussion of this interesting question by observing that Marchetti remarks that "The cause of baldness in men is the dryness of the brain, and its shrinking from the skull," he having observed that in bald persons, under the bald part, there was a vacancy between the skull and the brain. The question then arises, has petroleum softening powers on the intellect? We prefer to leave the matter for practical solution by our bald-headed friends!—Ed.]

HONGKONG CRICKET CLUB V. COAST PORTS. Never probably was Hongkong more favored with visitors than at the present time, nor greater interest displayed in the friendly tussle between our Coast Cricketers and the Hongkong C. C., which was commenced on Monday last in lovely weather.

Through unforeseen circumstances some of our Coast friends were unable to put in an appearance, and their places were filled by gentlemen resident in other Treaty Ports. The team was composed of four players from Amoy, three from Shanghai, two from Swatow, one from Foochow, and one from Canton; and Messrs Handley and Head were elected Captain of their respective sides. The Club, having won the toss, first went to the wickets, sending in Messrs Handley and Taylor to the bowling of Messrs Maclver and Watson. Mr Taylor was shortly bowled by Mr Maclver in attempting to hit round to leg, and the latter followed up the attack by clean bowling Messrs Hynes, D. C. Travers, and Handley for 2, 1 and 18 respectively. With four of their best wickets down for 46 things looked far from promising for the Club, but on Mr Walker joining Mr A. K. Travers an excellent stand was made and the field kept continuously on the move. Several changes of bowling took place, but in the first over of Mr Mercer, Mr Travers was bowled for a first-class innings of 53, played in really fine style and without giving a chance.

Mr Walker was the next to succumb, being bowled by Mr Aubert for 42. This gentleman's innings was also an excellent display of batting, both he and Mr Travers playing straight balls steadily and severely punishing loose ones. Messrs Johnson and De Russett were sick bowled by Mr Watson for 16 and 1 respectively, and Mr Griffith badly run out for 4. The total amounted to 164, of which 22 were extras.

The long stopping of Mr Bridgman was again very creditable, and the fielding generally good. Mr Head at the wicket and Mr Aubert at long leg and cover deserve special notice.

The first innings of our Coast friends was opened by Messrs Forbes and Head, Messrs Darby and Hynes handling the ball on the part of the Club. The former was well on the spot and, as in the case of the Club, the first few wickets fell rapidly.

Messrs Mercer and Maclver shewed in very good form, the former gentleman hitting very cleanly and quite in the old style. Mr Maclver was taken by Mr De Russett, off Mr A. Travers, who had relieved Mr Darby, for a very carefully-played 17, and Mr Hynes secured Mr Mercer's wicket at a time when matters began to look brighter for the Coast. Mr Bridgman contributed 12 in steady form, and Mr MacMinnies was cleverly stumped by Mr Walker who was particularly active at his post. At this stage of the match it was expected that the Coast would have to follow their innings, but the very careful play of Mr Young, combined with the free hitting of Mr Watson, soon set the question at rest, 30 runs being made by the last wicket.

The innings closed for 110 runs, Mr Watson carrying out his bat for a quickly-made 28. Messrs Handley and O. J. Travers commenced the second innings of the Club to the bowling of Messrs Maclver and Aubert.

By steady play and judicious hitting the score was raised to 95, when the first wicket fell, Mr Travers being caught off a slow Run-getting now was the order of the day, most of the players contributing freely, and the last wicket fell for the exceedingly respectable total of 298. Thus leaving the Coast the task of putting together 351 in order to win the match.

Eight Coast bowlers were tried, and the fielding was very creditable considering their long outing.

Play was resumed at 2.30 to-day, but the Coast team was very unfortunate, no one reaching double figures, while two of the bats were absent. Mr Woodall carried out his bat for a well played 9 and the innings closed for 55, the Club thus being victorious by 317 runs.

Police Intelligence.

February 21, 1877.

ABSENT.

Tong Sow Lin, the master of a cargo-boat, and Mok Akam, a boy, were again brought up before the Hon. C. May to answer the charge of violently assaulting one Li Ahnue, whereby four of complainant's teeth were knocked out. Mr L. Mallory appeared and stated that at 12.30 p.m. on the 19th he was walking on the Praya. He saw two men struggling, the 1st defendant and the 1st witness, and the former struck the latter a blow on the mouth with his fist. The 1st witness was then knocked down on the ground. The 2nd defendant threw a brick at him which hit him on the cheek bone. The 1st defendant then ran away pursued by some coolies who caught him and handed him over to the Police. Witness was sure that it was the blow of the 1st defendant which knocked out the man's teeth. He was a powerful man and the blow was a heavy one. The 2nd defendant then made his defence, stating that he was joking with another boy, who became angry and struck him. He returned the blow, when the 1st witness took the part of the boy. The defendant did not throw the tile as deposed to by Mr. Mallory. The Magistrate fined the 1st defendant $20, half of which was awarded to the injured man, in default one month's hard labour. The 2nd defendant was sent to seven days' solitary confinement, having been twice before convicted and sent to gaol.

(Before James Russell, Esq.)

NEW-YEAR PASTIME.

Lee A-mook, a cook, was charged with gambling at Tookwa-wan in British Kowloon. Fined $2, and the four cents' worth of cash used in the game were ordered to be placed in the Poor Box.

AN INCONGRUOUS THING.

Wong A-po, a lad 18 years of age, was brought up for stealing an umbrella belonging to a hawker at Queen's Road West. He had been in gaol before and was only discharged the day before yesterday. The defendant pleaded that he had just come out of gaol and had nothing to eat. A man owed his father $5 and he went to the house to look for the man with the view of getting something from him when he was charged with the theft. He was ordered twelve lashes with the rattan and to be imprisoned for 24 hours.

A RE-HEARING.

Ho Along, who was sent to one month's hard labour the day before yesterday for cutting a man at the Kowling Theatre, was brought up to-day to have his sentence amended. It appeared that the prisoner's mother had presented a petition, in which she set forth that her son was employed on board one of the Australian Mail steamers as table servant, which would leave at the end of the month, and if he was kept in prison, he would lose his situation. The Magistrate considerably amended the sentence of imprisonment to a fine of $10.

Japan.

(Japan Gazette.)

Mr. Yamamoto, who is held to be the best wood engraver in Kioto, is at present engaged in making twenty-five statuettes, representing the saints of Japan, which Mr. Emile Guimet, a French savant, ordered from him for the sum of $5,000 when he visited that town. The Meinichi Shinbun, whence we learn this, states that the profit according to Mr. Yamamoto is very small; but this artist loves his country so much that he has undertaken the work, as much as anything to show foreigners that Japan is not behind them in skill in the fine arts.

Humours have been afloat for some days past of troubles in Satsuma. The Shikoku here said to have seized the powder-magazine and that a man-of-war had been sent down to quiet them. The truth of this affair seems to be as follows:—On the 27th January, the Mitsui Bishi steamer Seikio Maru arrived at Kagoshima, and on the 31st took on board 2,000 boxes of powder from the powder manufactory there. Arrangements had been made to take on board 1,800 boxes on the 1st February, when a body of shikoku numbering about 2,500 men, came forward and ordered the people from the Seikio Maru to go away and leave the powder where it was, threatening to kill them to a man, if they attempted to take it away. The shikoku then carried off the powder, and the Seikio Maru immediately put to sea, and reached Kioto on the 6th inst. These accounts have since been fully confirmed. It is added that ten days ago the shikoku went to Saigo, and urged him to join them. He refused to do so, however, but on the contrary endeavoured to pacify them. Finding, however, that they were not to be reasoned with, he has disappeared and it is not known what has become of him. Shimadzu has had nothing to do with this disturbance. The Nichiichi Shinbun says that the men who prevented the shipping of the powder were the students of the private school of Satsuma.

The P. M. S. S. Company's steamer Alaska left San Francisco on the 1st instant, and her arrival here may consequently be looked for about the end of the month. It has hitherto been the rule that all agreements for the employment of foreigners, either by any Government Department or unofficial Japanese, should be submitted to the Gaimusho for approval before any final arrangement was permitted, but it has been notified that this proceeding now be dispensed with. This number of conscripts to be enrolled in the army this year will be 14,537. This exceeds the enrolment of last year by 8,940, the increase being rendered necessary by the fact that more deaths have occurred, and more men have been discharged from the ranks for various causes during the last three years than was anticipated.

The Mikado's intended movements are as follows:—His Majesty was to leave Kioto yesterday, the 7th instant, on a trip into the province of Yamato, resting at Uji last night after a stoppage for refreshment at Fushimi. On the 8th the Mikado will leave Uji, and passing through Nagasaki will arrive at Nara, where he will stay until the morning of the 10th instant, when he will start for Ise-mura, whence he will visit the Imperial tomb at Unbe-yama on the following day, returning to Ise-mura in the evening. On the 15th His Majesty will visit Domoji, stopping at mid-day at Shimoda, and on the 14th will start for Sakai, where he will remain for the night. On the 14th His Majesty will go into Osaka, remaining there until the morning of the 16th, when he will return by rail to Kioto. On the 21st His Majesty will finally leave Kioto for Kobe, where he will embark on board the Tokio Maru for Yokohama.

It is rather a notable fact that no criminal charge has been heard in the British Court since the 18th October last, until yesterday (Feb. 8).

The Japanese Government having purchased the building hitherto occupied by the French Legation at Yokohama, it is to be converted into a Saibansho. The Court business at present carried on in the building in Chojima-cho will be transferred to the new Saibansho at the end of next month. Some robbers entered the branch office of the Mining Department on the island of Sado, killed three officials, and then made their escape with about five thousand yen. They have not yet been discovered. A Naval Station is to be established at Take-naki, in the province of Tajima, where there is a very commodious harbour. At Sumonote, in the province of Awaji, a coal mine was recently discovered. On examination the coal was found equal in quality to that of the Takashima mine, so that it is expected mining operations will shortly be commenced.

THE ATTEMPT TO PASS A NOTE FORGED ON THE HONGKONG AND SHANGHAI BANK.

The following is a portion of the remaining evidence taken in the above case at Yokohama:—

Antoine Bennett, sworn.—I am a seaman by profession and was on the Tennessee last. I left that vessel in July or August last year. I was not on the Nevada afterwards. I had about $50 in my pocket when I left the Tennessee. I have been dealing in skins, doing some account work, collecting postage stamps, and working at photography since leaving the vessel. First I worked with a Chinaman named Hung Chang, not specially as a photographer but doing outside business.

The prisoner asked if the witness was a prisoner of the Crown. The Court informed him that the witness was not under British authority.

Witness continued.—I just made enough to live on at my various trades. Since I left the Tennessee I have never been the owner of $500. I never carried on photography on my own account. My father taught me photography. I know the prisoner. I became acquainted with him about November last year, at Peter Clausen's. The prisoner never asked me to do anything in photography. He promised to help me to get a photographic business at the commencement of our acquaintance. I don't know why he made that promise. He was going to help me by the aid of money. He gave me some money, with which I bought instruments, chemicals and paper in Tokio. The name of the place where I procured them I forgot, but it is the first house from the railway station in the Main Street on the left hand side after crossing the bridge. I believe George Hansen went with me. The prisoner paid the money. I brought this apparatus to Hansen's (prisoner's) residence in Yokohama, No. 107. I have taken the negative of a $500 note. I got the note to copy from the prisoner. I do not recollect the date, but believe it was about the end of December. I took about a dozen negatives. The first I took were not good enough to go from. The prisoner asked me to take the photographs. The last negatives were not very good, but the best I could produce. They were used to obtain copies from. These notes are copies from the negatives which I took. I printed those notes with the assistance of the prisoner. We made, perhaps, twenty prints. They were all taken from the same bank note. The paper was bought by me in a Japanese shop. Those notes are two different pieces of paper. I pasted them together with the help of the prisoner. I coloured the notes with water colours which I purchased in Tokio. I had no assistance in colouring them. I submitted the printed notes to the prisoner to see if they would do. He was not satisfied with them and said they were too dark. I don't know what became of the eight notes which were not burnt, the last I know of them was that they were given to George Hansen to change. George Hansen asked me for these notes. I do not know what the prisoner was aware of the notes being given to George Hansen. He knew before that they were to be given to him. Hansen got them about 14 days after they were printed. During that period they were lying in a drawer in a house belonging to the prisoner. The photographic operations were carried on in the prisoner's house. We used to fasten the doors mostly. The note was given by Hansen to me to photograph to see if I was a photographer. I did not try to photograph anything else. I did not know at the time that there were any other reasons. I knew afterwards that they were photographed for exchange. I knew that when the notes were ready, as the prisoner then told me. He asked me to exchange the notes, but I did not do so as I did not want to have anything to do with them, knowing that they were no good. I did not know that the notes were intended for use until after they were printed. When the prisoner asked me to exchange them I told him I would not have anything to do with them. I never took any steps to prevent their circulation, though I protested against their being circulated. The prisoner said that if I would not change them he would give me up to the Bank. I told him then that I would try to get them changed, but as a matter of fact I did not. The $500 note from which the negatives were taken was a good note. No one else helped me to make the notes except the prisoner. He assisted me in various ways. He was present when I took the negatives and when I prepared them and took the prints. I was paid some money now and then by the prisoner for taking the photographs. I did not live at No. 107 with him. I concealed two of the notes between the top of the table and the frame in No. 92. George Hansen occupied this room. George Hansen never told me what he did with the notes I gave him and the prisoner never informed me. The prisoner did not offer any special reward for making these notes. When I was asked to exchange the notes I was to give the money up to the prisoner; they were to be exchanged for his benefit. I do not know where the photographic instruments are now. The last I saw of them was when George Hansen went to Tokio to exchange five notes on Monday last. I know that he went to change them because he told me himself. Hansen took the lens to Tokio to sell it. The rest are remaining in No. 92. They were taken from 107 to 92 some days previous. Hansen did not sell the lens. He brought it back, but I don't know what he did with it. I know a man named Williams. He attempted to change a note. He got the note from me. That is the note. Williams asked me for the note. He was aware of my making the photographic copies. I told him about it. The prisoner was aware that Williams knew about the notes and objected to it, as he did not want Williams to know that he (prisoner) had anything to do with them. I knew Williams on the Tennessee as we were both on that vessel together. We were discharged on the same day. It was not eight notes but five notes which I gave to George Hansen. I do not know what became of those notes. When he returned from Tokio I was nearly asleep and at 12 o'clock that night was arrested. I do not know whether any of the notes were torn up.

The prisoner had no questions to ask. Anton Williams, sworn.—I was formerly in the Tennessee as a seaman. I was discharged on the same day as Bennett. I was for 14 days in Peter Clausen's, after which I served as quartermaster on the Nevada from which I was discharged on the 25th of last month. I recollect taking an apparent $500 Bank note to a Chinese exchange shop on the 6th instant. Bennett gave me that note. I was to give the money to Bennett. He had to pay me some money, and when I asked him if he gave me that note to go and get changed, saying he would pay me, I did not know that the note was not good, or that it had been photographed. Bennett told me he had to make some money, but I thought he meant to earn it with his hands. I know very little about the prisoner. The first time I saw him was about two months before Christmas. I knew a man named George Hansen. He was a shipmate on the Tennessee and was discharged some three months after me. Bennett told me that George Hansen intended to go to Tokio, but did not tell me for what purpose. I did not know at the time that he went to change a note. I knew the next morning when Bennett told me. I have had conversations with the prisoner, but he never talked about the notes. The note was given to me about half-past four o'clock in the afternoon. I cannot tell whether that was the note or not, but it was one like that for $500. Bennett said he had no time to go himself to change the note. I do not know the number of the Exchange shop I took the note to, but it is close to Peter Clausen's.

George Hansen, sworn.—I am a Swede. I was formerly in the Tennessee, and left about two months and a half ago. Since then I have been doing nothing, when I was on the Tennessee I was acquainted with Bennett and Williams. When I was on shore I lived for a few days at 82, but afterwards removed to 133. I knew that Bennett was a photographer, though I have never seen him operate. He took likenesses in Yokohama at a Chinese house. I know the prisoner and became acquainted with him when I first came on shore. I knew for the first time where the prisoner lived on the night Bennett was arrested. I remember having a conversation with Williams at Clausen's. He talked of making a thousand dollars in a few days. He was a little drunk. This was after Christmas, about a fortnight after he left the Nevada. Mr. Clausen was present at the time and must have heard the conversation. I don't know if Bennett was there or not but the prisoner was. Williams did not say how he was going to make this. I went to Tokio with Bennett, but did not know what he purchased there. I went to an ironmonger's to try and get employment; I came down with him to Yokohama. I don't know what he did with the parcel he brought from Yedo. He did not tell me what that parcel contained. I was on friendly terms with Bennett. He did not mention to me that he intended to set up a photograph shop of his own. Bennett never gave me any notes. I got one note from the prisoner, but I believe it was good. I went to Tokio last Monday to change a $500 note for the prisoner. I took the note to Yedo because the prisoner said I would get more for it.

I went all around to find a place to change the note, but could find none, so went to the watchmaker's to see if he could tell me. I went to Yedo in the 12 o'clock train. I only went to one place to try and change the note. I did not go to buy a watch when I went to the watchmaker. The watchmaker showed me a gold watch and said he wanted fifty dollars for it, but I did not offer to purchase it. The watchmaker said he had not sufficient money to change the note. I gave him the note to look at, and then he returned it to me, and I came back to Yokohama. When I came back I returned the note to the prisoner, who asked me if I could not change it, and I told him that the money-changer had no money. I am quite sure that Antoine Bennett did not give me the five notes. On the night that Williams was arrested, Bennett sent me to Clausen's to see if Williams was there, as he, Bennett, wanted to see him. Williams was not there, so I returned to Bennett who was lying on the bed. I saw Bennett tear up some papers in the afternoon, some of which were printed and some were white. He went out and took the torn pieces of paper with him. I did not tell Williams that I had taken five notes to Yedo. I changed one $500 note for the prisoner on Saturday week in Yokohama in Japanese town. They gave me $507.50 in paper money in exchange. I do not know the name of the shop, but I could find it. It is the second street down from the Main Street. The prisoner did not tell me to go to that particular shop. I simply went to change the note because the prisoner asked me to. He gave me one dollar for my trouble. I have said on one occasion that Bennett never gave me a note to change in Tokio, which I still stick to.

The Court then adjourned.

ANOTHER MODEL CONSUL.

Mr Nathan J. Newwitt is American Consul at Kobe—that cheerful, yet slightly torpid, port, and he seems to have become unaccountably possessed with a desire of forcing himself upon the notice of the Mikado of Japan. The first method he employed was to send His Majesty an invitation to dine or breakfast at the United States Consulate, in anticipation of his arrival at Kobe on the way to Kioto. The invitation was declined in courteous terms by the Japanese, as their manner is, but the impertinence of it was doubtless fully recognized, and we presume that no representation of it was made in other quarters, because they did not care to betray any touchiness upon what they deemed a piece of mere ill-breeding. But Mr Nathan J. Newwitt was not to be felled. By some unaccountable stroke of irony, fate had made him President of the Kobe Municipal Council, and in this capacity he thought he could approach the Mikado without let or hindrance. Accordingly he drew up the following document—we believe absolutely without the concurrence of his colleagues or even any reference to them—and the copy which was handed to us for publication is verbatim as it appears as follows:—

"Mr Nathan J. Newwitt, the United States Consul and President of the Hioigo Municipality, delivered the following address to the Emperor on the 6th instant. "The pleasant and honored duty of welcoming Your Majesty to this section of Your Empire and to greet Your Majesty in behalf of the Hioigo Municipality and its residents representing all nations has devolved upon me. In offering Your Majesty sincere congratulations on your safe arrival from the pleasant visit and sojourn at the western capital, the historical cities and beautiful homes of Your brave, honored, and heroic ancestors, I but interpret the feeling of the foreign community of Hioigo, when in their name I tender you a cordial welcome.

"I have reason to know that Your Majesty's visit to Kioto, Osaka, Nara, and Hioigo, and the days you have sojourned in the midst of Your people has added joy and inspired Your people with patriotic impulses, and the demonstrations with which you have been received is but a proof of a people's love, fidelity and loyalty. "The history of all ages have from time to time recorded the glory of their Rulers, but none will appear brighter on the pages of the world's history than that of Your Majesty's Empire, powerful and majestic now as well as centuries ago and progressive to a degree which must redound in continued National honor and glory. It is a source of pleasure to those who from foreign shores, have made Your Majesty's land their home who have watched the prosperity of Your people and that progress and glory amongst the Nations of the world, which Your Majesty's Government has achieved in so brief a time, aided by Your Majesty's personal efforts to promote the welfare of Your people. Wishing Your Majesty continued good health, and that Your Majesty's Reign may be happy and long continued as well as marked by constant advancement in everything that will benefit Your land and people, that peace and plenty essential to greatness and glory may ever surround Your Majesty's Government and People."

"It will be observed, that the heading of this paper states that the address was delivered to His Majesty on the 6th instant, but as it certainly was not delivered publicly, and formed no part of the official programme, the statement can only be regarded as conveying an absolutely false impression to the public. That Mr Newwitt may have pitched it, and even himself, upon the notice of the Emperor in some unauthorized and informal way, we shall not undertake absolutely to contradict, but that the delivery of the address formed any part of the day's official proceedings we emphatically deny. It is impossible to swear that some one did not come down the chimney into the room set apart for His Majesty, and might have thus achieved his entrance, and presented an address. The inevitable superadded nightshade would indeed betray even the most adroit performer in this narrow sphere of activity! but what 'little Bootie' did at Windsor might undoubtedly be done elsewhere.

On behalf of his countrymen specially, and on behalf of the community of Kobe and its Municipal officers, we are warranted in stating that Mr Newwitt's behavior has created the strongest feeling of annoyance and disgust, and that they are all repudiate all participation in his acts or his pretended public address.

To the language in which this precious instrument is drawn up we can only refer in terms of mortification. "The history of all nations have"—(have it!) "The days you have sojourned in the midst of your people has added joy, &c."—(has they?) "To a degree which must redound, &c."—(What is return?) "The demonstrations with which you have been received is but a proof, &c. (Is they, really?) Then the headlines and tailless sentences, which less themselves as sublime, the claim to represent the Kobe community, and the tender of welcome and congratulations—in infamous grammar—in their name. This is really too hard on the little model settlement and its residents. We understand that the whole affair is under the consideration of those who are principally concerned in setting themselves right with the public, and we trust that such representations as may be made in regard to this serious trespass upon good manners and the proprieties of official life, will meet with proper attention. It is out of all reason that the reputation of a whole community should suffer for the bad manners of one man.—Japan Mail.

THE CHINESE MAIL.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING IN THE Chinese Mail.

TWO cents a character for the first 100 characters, and one cent a character beyond the first 100, for first insertion, and half price for repetitions during the first week. Subsequent week's insertions will be charged only one half the amount of first week's charge. Advertisements for a full year and longer will be allowed a deduction of 25 per cent. on the total amount,
and contracts for more favourable terms
can be made.

Efforts have been made to establish Agents for circulating the Chinese Mail in all the ports and in the interior of China, all the ports in Japan, in Saigon, Singapore, Penang, Calcutta, Batavia, Manila, the Philippines, Amoy, Hongkong, Peking,
and other places which Chinese frequent.
When the list of Agencies is completed, it will be published. Agents have been already established in most of the above places, and in important ports more than one agent has been appointed at each.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATION.

PENANG.

THE Municipal Commissioners of Penang are desirous of receiving DESIGNS for a TOWN-HALL. This Building is to be erected on the ground on the east side of the Kaplanade situated between the latter and Duke Street, and its cost is not to exceed $30,000.

The Commissioners offer a PREMIUM of $400 for the best and most suitable Design with Specifications; and competitors have the option of forwarding tenders for carrying out the work.

The Designs, accompanied with all documents, are to be sent to the Municipal Office
Penang, on or before the 1st of March next.
For further information apply to the Secretary to the Municipal Commissioners at Penang.

Municipal Office,

The 21st September, 1876.

NOTICE.

THE CHINESE MAIL.

FROM and after the Chinese New Year's day (February 17, 1874) the Chinese Mail will be issued DAILY instead of tri-weekly as heretofore. No change, however, will be made in the price of subscription, which will remain at $4 per annum.
The charges for advertisements are now
assimilated to those of the Chinese Mail.
The unusual success which has attended the Chinese Mail makes it an admirable medium for advertisers.

The Conductors guarantee an eventual circulation of one thousand copies. It is already the most influential native journal published, and enjoys considerable prestige at the Ports of China and Japan, and at Singapore, Penang, Calcutta, San Francisco and Australia.
